1. DISCOVER DENVER OVERVIEW

Project Purpose

Discover Denver is a multi-year project intended to develop a comprehensive inventory of Denver's historic and architecturally significant resources. Led by Historic Denver, Inc. in collaboration with the City and County of Denver, this project utilizes advanced technology to accelerate the pace of historic resource survey and improve the consistency of data collection. Project methodology is based on the Multiple Property Documentation Approach and the Historic Context Statement framework developed by the National Park Service.

Denver covers a land area of 154 square miles and contains approximately 160,000 primary buildings. As of the beginning of the survey covered by this report, fewer than 11% of these buildings had been surveyed for historical and architectural significance. In 2018, the City and County of Denver received and approved more than 600 demolition permits. Consequently, Denver is at risk of losing many properties that tell the story of the city's evolution and the people, events, ethnic and cultural heritages, and architectural styles that make Denver a special and interesting place to live.

Recent studies have shown that economic development occurs in historic districts at seven times the rate of other areas. According to The Economic Power of Heritage and Place (The Colorado Historical Foundation, 2011) and Preservation for a Changing Colorado (Colorado Preservation, Inc., 2017), investment in historic resources creates jobs, attracts businesses, and generates income from consumer visitation and spending. The purpose of Discover Denver is to identify those special places in our community where rehabilitation and investment will preserve our city's unique identity and promote quality of life for generations to come.

Project History

Discover Denver is a multi-phase project. The project's initial methodology was developed and evaluated in two preparatory phases, the Investigative Phase and the Pilot Phase. Subsequent phases of the project have used the same base methodology, though the methodology has been refined with each new phase.

Investigative Phase - The initial phase of Discover Denver (2010-2011) focused on developing a methodology and funding plan for the project. During this phase, staff from Historic Denver, Inc., the City and County of Denver, and the Colorado Office of Archaeology and Historic Preservation worked with consultants Winter & Company and an advisory committee comprised of community stakeholders. The report Denver Historic Survey: Citywide Survey Strategy was the result of these efforts. Recommendations in the report included the use of survey software and methodologies developed by the City of Los Angeles for use in its own citywide survey, SurveyLA.

Pilot Phase – The goal of the Pilot Phase (2012-2015) was to test out recommendations made in the Investigative Phase. To test the proposed methodology, three distinct pilot survey efforts were undertaken. Pilot 1 focused on a post-World War II developer-planned residential subdivision, Pilot 2 looked at 1920s small homes in two geographically distinct areas, and Pilot 3 focused on streetcar commercial districts embedded in two residential neighborhoods. An agreement with the City of Los Angeles allowed Discover Denver to use survey software developed for its own citywide survey, SurveyLA. The software was used in Pilot 1 and Pilot 2, but by Pilot 3 was determined not to be a good long-term fit for Discover Denver due to hardware costs and the level of technical support required for its use. New survey software was developed that ran on inexpensive handheld tablets. This software was used in subsequent phases of Discover Denver, Phase One and Phase Two. Field survey efforts for the Pilot Phase ended in Fall 2014, and reporting on the Pilot Phase was completed in Spring 2015.

Phase One - The first non-pilot survey phase of Discover Denver, Phase One, began in Spring 2015 and documented buildings in three Denver neighborhoods (Jefferson Park, Globeville, and Elyria-Swansea). Phase One efforts were completed in 2017.

Phase Two - Survey efforts in Phase Two focused on three survey areas (Virginia Village, City Park West, and Capitol Hill-West Cheesman), as well as sections of two of Denver's major commercial corridors (East 17th Avenue and South Broadway). Phase Two used largely the same methodology employed in Phase One of Discover Denver. Phase Two efforts were completed in 2019.

Phase Three – Survey efforts in Phase Three, the most recent phase of Discover Denver, focused on four statistical neighborhoods (Congress Park, West Colfax, Regis, and Cole), a combined survey area comprised of the western section of the Capitol Hill neighborhood and the eastern portion of the Cheesman Park neighborhood, and sections of extant streetcar commercial districts located throughout the city.

This report covers efforts in the Regis survey area, and other Phase Three survey areas are covered in their own reports.

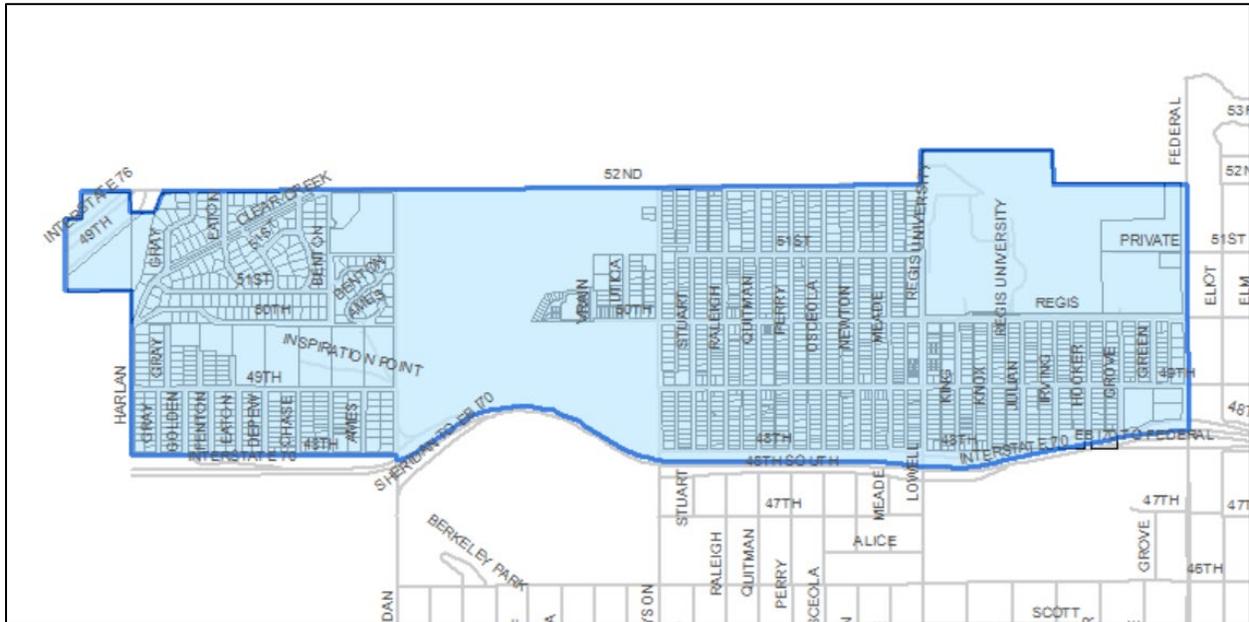

1. INTRODUCTION

Survey efforts in the Regis survey area began in March of 2020, but were put on hold after just one day due to statewide restrictions related to the COVID-19 pandemic. Survey resumed in late May with social distancing procedures in place in order to ensure the safety of the survey crew. Many volunteers chose to wait to return to survey, and survey began again in earnest in August.

All work was performed according to the general methods previously established by the project, with any changes or variations described in the Research Design and Methods section of this report. Survey of Regis took place from March 14, 2020 to October 31, 2020. Data for a total of 1,565 parcels was collected and uploaded to the Discover Denver database. As with prior Discover Denver surveys, the bulk of the properties were surveyed by trained volunteers and Discover Denver staff. Properties and districts landmarked by the City and County of Denver were excluded from the survey.

2. PROJECT AREA

The Regis survey area consisted of buildings within the Regis statistical neighborhood, bounded by Federal Boulevard (east), Interstate 70 (south), Harlan (west), and W. 52nd Avenue (north). The boundaries for the survey area are shown on the map below.

The Regis University campus encompasses the northeast corner of the neighborhood between Lowell and Federal boulevards north of W. 50th Avenue. Willis Case Golf Course, which makes up about one quarter of the neighborhood, is bounded by Tennyson Street (east) and Sheridan Boulevard (west), with the El Jebel Temple and a small number of homes occupying an inset area north of W. 50th Avenue. West of the golf course is an area known as Inspiration Point. Inspiration Point Park is located in the middle of this area, between W. 49th and W. 50th avenues. Clear Creek runs through the northwest corner of the Inspiration Point area. Federal Boulevard, a major commercial corridor, is lined with fast food businesses and parking lots. Lowell Boulevard, a former streetcar route, is lined with a mix of residential and commercial buildings from a range of eras.

The blocks south of the university and east of the golf course are lined mostly with modest homes dating from nearly every decade, ranging from the 1890s and up to the present. In the area west of Lowell Boulevard stand a handful of high-style Queen Anne homes, some of the earliest in the area. In Inspiration Point, most homes date from the 1950s and 1960s. While most streets in Regis follow a grid system, those north of Inspiration Point Park are curvilinear, following the norm for that era.

3. RESEARCH DESIGN AND METHODS

Survey Objectives and Scope of Work

The primary objective of this survey was to identify buildings within the Regis survey area having architectural, historical, or cultural significance.

A hybrid reconnaissance-intensive approach to the survey was taken. In this approach, buildings were surveyed at one of four levels: Foundation, Descriptive, Evaluation, and Enhanced. Increasing levels of detail were collected based on a building's age, historic physical integrity, and potential for architectural, historical, or cultural significance.

- Foundation Level

At the Foundation level, electronic data regarding physical location, address, year of construction, and use was collected from the City and County of Denver. All properties were surveyed at the Foundation level.

- Descriptive Level:

At the Descriptive level, all buildings thirty years of age or older, regardless of historic physical integrity, were field surveyed. One to three photographs were taken of each building, and limited information, such as architectural style, building type, and level of modification, was collected. Buildings less than thirty years of age were logged and photographed, but no additional data was collected.

- Evaluation Level:

At the Evaluation level, detailed information regarding architectural style, building type, architectural features, and setting were collected on buildings greater than thirty years of age that retained their historic physical integrity. Field evaluations were made for each of these buildings based on their potential for individual architectural significance and on whether they were located in a cluster with other buildings having significance. Discover Denver survey forms were generated for each of these resources and provided to the State Office of Archaeology and Historic Preservation.

- Enhanced Level:

Historical research was performed on selected buildings having potential architectural, historical, or cultural significance, or that were good representations of the greater building stock of the Congress Park survey area. For each building researched, a Discover Denver Enhanced Survey Form, based on History Colorado's Architectural Inventory Form (1403), was completed. Each property was evaluated in terms of individual significance and significance as a part of a cluster of buildings having architectural, cultural, or historical significance at the national, state, and local levels.

Survey Exclusions

Buildings individually designated as historic landmarks by the City and County of Denver or those within Denver Historic Landmark Districts were excluded from the survey.

Project Participants

Discover Denver is a partnership between Historic Denver, Inc. and the City and County of Denver’s Community Planning and Development Department. Trained community volunteers and interns played a significant role in the project, performing most of the field survey and historical research under the supervision of project staff.

File Search and Previous Survey Work

Identification of resources previously surveyed was performed in Spring 2020. No undesignated properties have been previously determined officially eligible for listing in the National or State registers by the Colorado Office of Archaeology and Historic Preservation.

Currently Designated Resources

The Regis neighborhood contains individual properties and districts that have been designated as Denver historic landmarks. It also contains individual properties that have been placed in the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP) and the Colorado State Register of Historic Properties (SRHP).

One individually designated building was identified within the Regis survey area. Inspiration Point Park is also designated as a thematic component of the City and County of Denver’s parks and parkways system.

Public Outreach

Public outreach occurred prior to beginning fieldwork. Discover Denver staff met with the city council representatives for the Regis neighborhood to discuss the survey project and to answer any questions. Each registered neighborhood organization (RNO) in the survey area was contacted about upcoming fieldwork.

Survey Software and Database

To collect survey data, Discover Denver uses proprietary software that runs on handheld tablets. This software allows a surveyor to choose the appropriate level of survey for each resource and to take photographs with the tablet that will automatically be attached to the survey record. A web-based user interface allows Discover Denver staff to assign properties for survey, quality-check collected data, add historical information to a survey record, and generate survey forms for each property. Additionally, project staff can export survey data through the user interface for use in analysis and reporting.

Survey Fieldwork

Survey of the Regis survey area took place from March 14, 2020 to October 31, 2020. Data for a total of 1,565 parcels was uploaded to the Discover Denver database. The bulk of the properties were surveyed by trained volunteers overseen by Discover Denver staff. Properties and districts that are currently landmarked by the City and County of Denver were excluded from the survey. Unbuilt parcels were included in the database but noted as having been unbuilt at the time of survey, with current use (e.g., “Surface Parking”) noted in the entry.

Before survey work began in the Regis survey area, the master survey database was pre-populated with data acquired from the City and County of Denver. Pre-populated data included a unique site ID number, address and legal description, geographic information, and assessor’s year of construction for the primary building on each parcel. As survey data was collected in the field and historical research was performed, this information was attached to the appropriate survey record.

Properties expected to be surveyed during a given survey shift were “assigned” through the master survey database by Discover Denver staff, allowing specific addresses to appear on the handheld tablets used by the survey volunteers. Volunteers met the survey shift leader at a predefined location to receive specific instructions and a tablet with which to collect data. They then worked independently or with a partner to survey each building, with the survey shift leader available to answer questions if needed.

A minimum of three photographs of each building surveyed was taken by the surveyor. These generally consisted of one facade photograph and two oblique photographs. In some instances, such as corner parcels, four or more photographs were taken in order to maximize information collected photographically.

Following field survey, Discover Denver staff quality checked tablet entries against photographs to ensure accuracy and legibility of data. For volunteers who were new to the project or who demonstrated a lower aptitude relative to their teammates, 100% of entries were checked. Because the Regis survey area included a wide range of styles and types, the “Building Type” and “Architectural Style” fields were checked for most entries.

Historical Research

Historical research was performed on a select number of properties in the Regis survey area. Properties were chosen for historical research based on their potential architectural, cultural, or historical significance, or on the ability of the resource to convey the unique history and architecture of the neighborhood. In several cases, properties were chosen based on anecdotal information provided to Discover Denver by residents of the neighborhood.

Historical research included the use of Denver assessor records to determine a chain of ownership and city directories to determine residents or businesses associated with a given property. Resources available in the Denver Public Library’s Western History and Genealogy collections were used extensively. These resources included building permits, master property records, historical maps, census records, obituary indexes, and the full series of the Rocky Mountain News and the Denver Post newspapers.

Historical research was used to complete Discover Denver Enhanced survey forms and to evaluate researched properties for national, state, and local significance.

4. HISTORICAL OVERVIEW

We acknowledge with respect that the lands now occupied by the City and County of Denver are the traditional and ancestral homelands of the Arapaho, Cheyenne, and Ute Nations. These lands were also an important site of trade for numerous other Native tribes. We recognize the Indigenous peoples as original stewards of this land and their descendants that still reside here.

Early Regis

Much of the area that makes up today's Regis neighborhood was at one time a part of the town of North Denver, later renamed Berkeley. The town of North Denver, incorporated in 1892, encompassed an irregularly-shaped area stretching roughly from W. 38th Avenue to W. 52nd Avenue and from Federal Boulevard to Sheridan Boulevard. As the area surrounding the town was also known generally as North Denver, in 1898 the town was renamed Berkeley to avoid confusion.¹ The part of Berkeley to the north of W. 48th Avenue that makes up today's Regis neighborhood was known variously as Berkeley Hill or Berkeley Heights.²

Prior to Berkeley's incorporation, John Brisben Walker's Berkeley Farm made up this area. Walker grew drought-tolerant alfalfa on his 1,500-acre farm in the early 1880s, and teamed up with Dr. William A. Bell, platter of the Highland Park subdivision, in 1885 to found the Berkeley Farm and Cattle Company. Within just a few years the pair had increased their holdings to 1,700 acres. Today's Berkeley Lake was developed as a reservoir on the farm.³

In order to entice the Jesuits to move their College of the Sacred Heart, founded just a few years earlier near Morrison, to north Denver, Walker offered to give them 40 acres of his alfalfa farm. His hope was that this gift would bring favor from the church and increase the value of his land.⁴ The Jesuits accepted the gift and moved their school, today known as Regis University, to its current location in 1887.

In 1888, Walker and Bell sold their land holdings to a group of Kansas City investors, organized as the Denver Land & Security Company, for over $300,000.⁵

Early Development: 1889 to 1905

Platting and General Development

It did not take long for the Kansas City outfit to begin laying the groundwork for what would become Berkeley. The group filed plats in 1889 for nearly half of the land that makes up today's Regis neighborhood, including everything south of Regis University and north of W. 48th Avenue between Federal and Lowell boulevards, and between Lowell and Tennyson Street from W. 48th to W. 52nd avenues.

The Kansas City group contracted with Carleton Ellis and John McDonough to subdivide and sell the land.⁶ Noted Denver architect William Lang was commissioned to design thirty-five homes throughout Berkeley, some of which still stand today. While little known documentation exists outlining the addresses of these Lang-designed homes, his unique architectural design style provides clues that help identify homes throughout the former Berkeley as his work.

The individuals behind the Denver Land & Security Company also formed the Denver & Berkeley Park Rapid Transit Company (D&BPRT) in 1888 to bring prospective buyers to the area.⁷ Starting at Zuni Street and W. 30th Avenue, D&BPRT streetcars wound their way through the town of Highland on their way to Berkeley Lake. From there, they looped around the west side of the lake to Tennyson Street and W. 50th Avenue, heading east to Lowell Boulevard, just south of the College of the Sacred Heart campus.⁸

A competing streetcar company, the Highland Street Railroad, began service around the same time. The company operated horsecars, pulled by horses or mules, westward along W. 38th Avenue from Clay Street to Lowell Boulevard before turning north to the college.⁹

The Town of Berkeley developed into a residential community with a town hall at W. 45th Avenue and Yates Street (demolished in 2010), and a small commercial district along Tennyson Street. The section of Berkeley south of W. 48th Avenue was built out more quickly than Berkeley Hill. The 1900 census shows Berkeley Hill residents were generally white, middle class, and native-born, with occupations ranging from lawyer to bookkeeper to building contractor to street railway conductor. When the town of Berkeley was annexed by Denver in 1902 it had 707 residents, most of whom lived south of W. 48th Avenue.¹⁰

The 1905 Baist Atlas shows the area south of the College of the Sacred Heart with just a few residences, mostly made of wood frame, scattered on the blocks between W. 48th and W. 50th avenues. Many of these were associated with truck farms, small agricultural plots whose owners trucked their produce to Denver for sale.

The blocks west of Lowell Boulevard were similarly barren, though clusters of homes had begun to appear along W. 50th Avenue, the route of the Denver & Berkeley Park Rapid Transit Company streetcar line. Much of the land west of Tennyson Street remained undeveloped and under the ownership of John Brisben Walker. In 1905, Denver's western city limit stood at Sheridan Boulevard.

Homes constructed during this early period ranged from the elaborate Queen Anne residences designed by William Lang to simple one-story brick or frame cottages.

Early Regis University

After accepting John Brisben Walker's gift of land, the Jesuits wasted no time in setting plans in motion for their move from Morrison. The current location of Regis University is the school's third, having been in Las Vegas, New Mexico and Morrison before moving to W. 50th Avenue and Lowell Boulevard in 1887. Walker stipulated that the Jesuits "erect and maintain a college designed for the education of youths and young men, at some point near the city of Denver; the building thereof to be not less than 297 feet long, nor less than 60 feet in height, and to contain at least four floors, the walls of which shall be built of stone."¹¹

Ground was broken in 1887 for Main Hall, which fit Walker's specifications.¹² The building was designed by notable architects Henry Dozier and Alexander Cazin. Cazin was born in Germany and worked as an architect there before moving to the United States. He was a draftsman for Robert Roeschlaub before working on his own. Cazin's extant work in Denver includes the Buerger Block in the Larimer Square Historic District. Henry Dozier came to Denver from his native Mississippi in the late 1870s, and was a founding member of the Rocky Mountain Association of Architects. Little of Dozier's work still stands in Denver. Cazin and Dozier teamed up in 1887 and 1888 before dissolving their partnership.

Classes were held in the new Main Hall in July of 1888.¹³ While calling itself a college, Sacred Heart was essentially a high school, with students ranging in age from 12 to 18.¹⁴ The school was quite isolated but sat at the crest of a hill overlooking the Rocky Mountains and Denver.

The school was self-contained and surrounded by open land. Only a few buildings were nearby, including the Queen Anne residence at 5127 Lowell Boulevard, built circa 1891, which served as a residence hall and annex for the school, and later as the first site of the J. K. Mullen Home for Boys. On the same block was the home of Sabatino Tovani, who had worked for the College of the Sacred Heart in Morrison and moved to Berkeley to continue working for the school.

Early Schools in Regis

Berkeley School was built in stages along the west side of the 5000 block of Lowell Boulevard, across the street from Regis University. A small two-room school was constructed in 1891 and expanded several times in the coming years. In 1906 a small, hipped-roof schoolhouse (extant) was constructed, designed by Denver architect David Dryden. It became the school auditorium after a much larger school was built to its south in 1923. Sanborn maps show that the two buildings were connected by a tunnel.

The Regis Neighborhood Fills Out: 1905 to World War II

General Development

Denver as a whole saw incredible growth in the coming years, and this growth extended to the Regis neighborhood. Residential blocks filled out, and places of worship and businesses were constructed to support the residents. Most homes built during this period were modest wood frame or brick bungalows and Classic Cottages.

Small streetcar commercial districts developed along Lowell Boulevard and W. 50th Avenue, filled with businesses serving the surrounding community. The commercial districts along Lowell Boulevard at W. 49th and W. 50th avenues, just south of Regis College, contained businesses that catered to the college students including restaurants, barbers, and ice cream shops.

Boulevard contained a drug store, a barber, a bakery, and a clothes cleaners.

Several parts of today's Regis neighborhood went undeveloped for decades. The area north of W. 51st Avenue and just west of Regis University remained largely undeveloped into the 1950s. The land west of Sheridan Boulevard at this time was a part of Jefferson County, and largely rural. A few modest homes were built south of Inspiration Point Park during this period, but this area was otherwise undeveloped.

Queen of Heaven Orphanage

During this time, the Queen of Heaven Orphanage was founded on the edge of the Regis neighborhood. In 1905, Catholic nun Mother Francesca Cabrini purchased a farmhouse at the northwest corner of W. 48th Avenue and Federal Boulevard, opening the Queen of Heaven Orphanage there the following year. It was not long before the orphanage was over capacity. In 1917, a four-story Classical Revival brick building was constructed for the home. After World War II, the foster care system was seen as a better model for orphaned children. In 1964, the Queen of Heaven property was sold to the Colorado Department of Transportation to make room for the Interstate 70 project. The facility closed in 1969, and the building was demolished in 1973.¹⁵

Regis University Expands

In 1921, the College of the Sacred Heart was renamed Regis College.¹⁶ This change kicked off a period of expansion for the school. The college purchased the land on the west side of Lowell Boulevard across from the school, and built Carroll Hall, its first dormitory on campus, to accommodate its growing student body.¹⁷ Carroll Hall is still used today by the university.

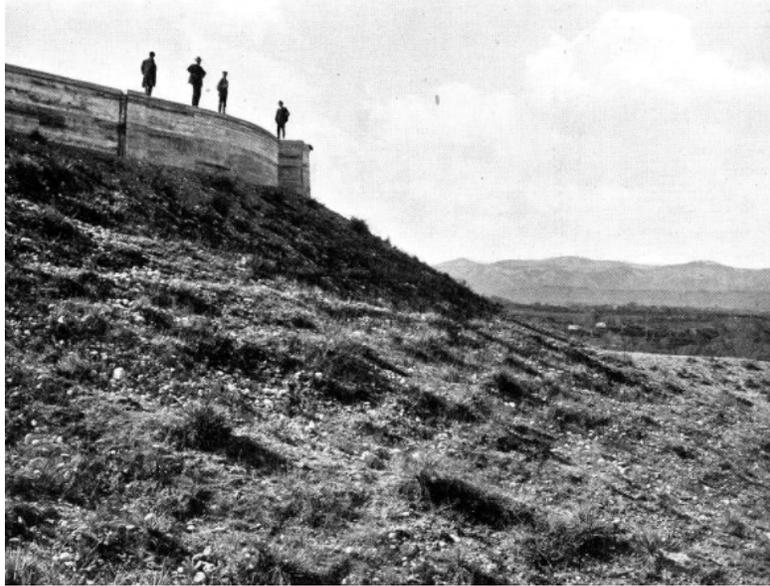

Parks, Golf Courses, and the El Jebel Shrine

In 1906 the City of Denver purchased Berkeley Lake, converting it to a new park. Located at the northwest corner of Tennyson Street and W. 46th Avenue, the lake was initially used by John Brisben Walker to irrigate his alfalfa fields. Later that year, Walker donated land north of Berkeley Lake and west of Sheridan Boulevard to the city. Three years later, that land would become Inspiration Point Park.¹⁸

John McDonough, a real estate investor and developer of much of the Town of Berkeley through his Denver Land & Security Company, created the Interlachen Golf Club in 1902. In 1909 the club entered into an agreement with the City of Denver to build a 9-hole course north of W. 50th Avenue and west of Tennyson Street, co-maintained by the City and the club with shared access by both groups. A clubhouse was constructed in 1912 at the approximate location of the El Jebel Shrine Mosque at W. 50th Avenue and Vrain Street.¹⁹

The course was reorganized as the Rocky Mountain Country Club in 1921 and, in 1924, sold to the El Jebel Shriners who planned to build a new temple north of the course. The new El Jebel Shrine Mosque, designed by William N. Bowman and T. Robert Wieger, was constructed in 1929.²⁰

That same year, Denver built a new 9-hole course north of Berkeley Park and south of the El Jebel Shrine course, calling it the Berkeley Park Golf Course.²¹ The two courses operated separately until the mid-1930s. In 1934, avid golfer and wealthy stockbroker Willis Case was murdered by a jealous girlfriend and left $113,000 to the City to expand its golf facilities. They used the money to purchase the Shiner's course, combining it with the Berkeley Park Golf Course and renaming the new 18-hole facility for Willis Case.²²

Regis Neighborhood: World War II to 1990s

General Neighborhood Development

Most blocks in the Regis neighborhood east of Tennyson Street were fully developed before World War II. The blocks just to the west of Regis College and north of W. 51st Avenue were filled in during the 1950s and 1960s with Ranch and Split-Level homes.

Figure 12 - A 1958 Split-Level home on Meade Street, representative of the post-war homes constructed just west of Regis University. Discover Denver photograph.

The area west of Sheridan Boulevard continued to be a part of Jefferson County until after World War II. In 1948, Denver annexed the land south of Inspiration Point Park, as well as Inspiration Point Terrace, a square area just to the north of the park. These newly annexed areas were built out in the 1950s with neat ranch homes. Alphonse Martischang was responsible for the development of the area south of Inspiration Point Park, including the construction of the Martischang Building at 5335 W. 48th Avenue.

The area north of Inspiration Point Park was annexed by Denver in 1962. Homes in the Inspiration Point Estates Subdivision date to the 1960s and 1970s and are primarily substantial Bi-Level and Split-Level houses with spectacular views of the surrounding area. The subdivision was marketed as a luxury home development with curving streets and mountain views.²³

Residents in Denver's older neighborhoods began moving to the suburbs in the 1950s and 1960s. Increasingly, existing homes in the Regis neighborhood became rental properties, often providing housing for students at the nearby college.

Regis University Continues to Develop

After World War II, enrollment at Regis College continued to grow. Several additional buildings were constructed on the campus to accommodate these new students, including a new chapel (1949) and a new classroom building, Loyola Hall (1951).²⁴

By 1952, Regis had become a fully-accredited four-year college, in addition to maintaining its high school program. The campus continued to develop, adding a fieldhouse in 1960, and two additional buildings in 1966.²⁵ Women were admitted to the school for the first time in 1968.²⁶ In 1976 Regis built a new high school, but it moved to Aurora in 1990 following the migration of many Catholics to the suburbs.²⁷ In 1991, Regis College became Regis University.

Construction of Interstate 70 through Regis

Interstate 70 was constructed in stages between 1964 and 1966.²⁸ The construction bisected the former town of Berkeley along W. 48th Avenue, separating the lower part of Berkeley from Berkeley Hill. Homes were demolished along the south side of W. 48th Avenue for the project, as well to accommodate ramps at Federal and Lowell boulevards.

Regis Neighborhood: 2000 to Present

The Regis neighborhood continues to be a primarily residential, middle-class neighborhood. Residences are a mix of those occupied by owners and by students from Regis University. As development has boomed in the Denver metropolitan area, changes have come to the area.

The El Jebel Shrine Mosque was sold to developers in 2018 and converted to condominiums, rebranded as Mirador at Tennyson. Surrounding the condominium building, new multi-unit residences were constructed on the property that surrounded the former Shriners home.

Modest older homes on large lots have been razed to make way for large, boxy single-family homes and two- and three-unit residential buildings. Especially impacted have been the blocks along Lowell Boulevard nearest the university.

5. RESULTS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Summary

A total of 1,558 parcels were surveyed in the Regis survey area. Vacant parcels and buildings less than thirty years of age were surveyed at the Foundation level, while more information was gathered on those buildings that were over thirty years of age. 25 individual buildings were surveyed at the Enhanced level and were evaluated for historical, architectural, or cultural significance. Seven areas were identified as having a concentration of buildings with architectural, cultural, or historical significance.

Survey Levels

Parcels surveyed at the Foundation level are those that contain buildings less than thirty years of age or no buildings at all. Buildings surveyed at the Descriptive survey level were over thirty years of age but had major alterations. Those surveyed at the Evaluation level were over thirty years of age and were unaltered or had alterations that were considered minor or moderate. The majority of properties surveyed in the Regis survey area were documented at the Evaluation level. Buildings surveyed at the Enhanced level were researched and evaluated for historical or cultural significance.

Survey Level	Description	Count
Foundation	Vacant parcels or less than 30 years old	122
Descriptive	Over 30 years old with major alterations	120
Evaluation	Over 30 years old with good integrity	1,291
Enhanced	Evaluated for significance	25

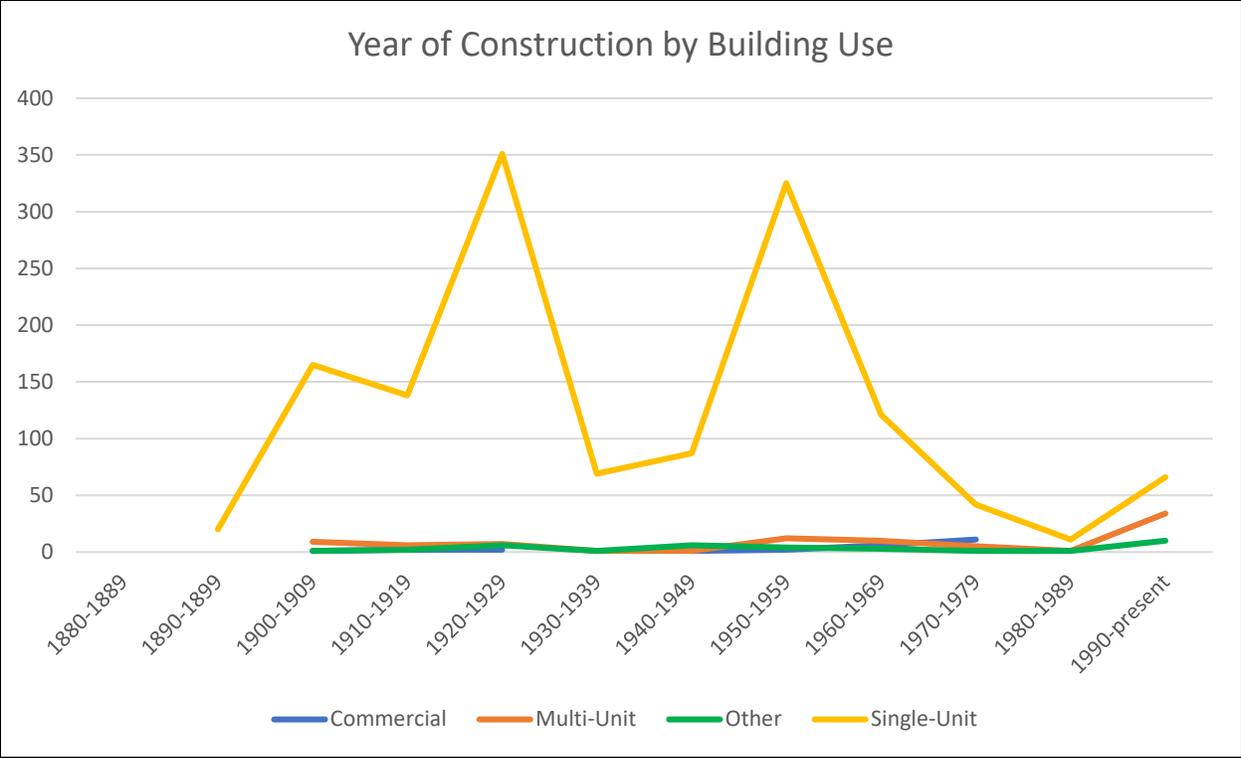

Years of Construction

Prior to 1900, the area surrounding Regis University was primarily rural. A relatively small number of single-unit homes were built during this time, mostly scattered throughout the area. Development ramped up over the first two decades of the 20th century, peaking in the 1920s. A significant number of bungalows are found throughout the neighborhood, aligning with this trend. Development stalled during and immediately after the Great Depression, and then spiked again in the 1950s as the Inspiration Point area was developed. Nearly 90% of the buildings in Regis are single-unit homes.

Multi-unit buildings were not constructed in Regis until after 1900. The following decades show a consistent number of buildings constructed, until after 1990 when that number spiked. This trend follows what was happening in the rest of Denver.

Most commercial buildings in Regis are along the former streetcar commercial routes along Lowell Boulevard and W. 50th Avenue, or along Federal Boulevard, a major commercial corridor. The earliest commercial buildings date to the 1900s, but most were built in the 1970s.

Building Forms and Styles

For purposes of this report and the Discover Denver project more generally, a distinction is made between building forms and architectural styles. Building forms are generally identified by the organization of a building's plan and massing. For example, the Foursquare building form is so-called because it is organized, in plan, into four zones of similar size in a square configuration. On the other hand, architectural styles are identified by design features applied to the building. Like clothing, architectural styles come and go according to what is in vogue at any period in time. The Queen Anne architectural style, characterized by over-the-top detailing such as textured shingles, patterned masonry and spindle-work was "in style" between the late-1880s and late-1890s. After the turn of the century, few Queen Anne homes were constructed as homeowners opted for styles, such as Edwardian, with more classical elements.

It should be noted that the concepts of style and form are sometimes used interchangeably. For instance, in their A Field Guide to American Houses, Virginia and Lee McAlester note that the term "bungalow" was used in the early 1900s to describe small homes constructed in the Craftsman style and that it was only after 1920 that the bungalow was understood as a type to which other styles could be applied.²⁹

Likewise, some buildings may have a building form but no clear architectural style. Such buildings are documented by Discover Denver with the appropriate form and an architectural style of "No Clear Architectural Style."

Architectural Styles

In the Regis survey area, the Discover Denver team observed twenty-six architectural styles, as well as numerous examples of buildings that, while carrying no specific style, exhibited identifiable stylistic elements. The following tables present the most commonly observed architectural styles in the survey area.

Building Forms/Types

The Discover Denver project documented thirty different building forms in the Regis survey area, with an additional 116 buildings documented as “Other” in the building form field because they did not fit any of the identified building forms in the database. Many of the buildings documented as having an “Other” form had poor historic physical integrity.

The following building forms and/or types are presented within Single-unit, Multi-unit, and Commercial categories and are present in sufficient quantities to be considered character-defining for the Regis area.

Single-Unit Residential Building Forms/Types

The majority (89.9%) of buildings in the Regis survey area were documented as single-unit homes. Nearly 25% of these were of the Bungalow form, while 21% were of the Ranch form. Other single-unit buildings were distributed across other identifiable types/forms.

Properties Evaluated for Significance

Of the properties documented during field survey (no designated properties were recorded), 6.4% (N=92) were documented as having no alterations visible from the public right of way. Additionally, 85% (N=1220) were documented as having minor or moderate alterations (e.g., window replacement or subordinate rear additions) indicating that, while they may be too altered to be individually architecturally significant, they carry sufficient historic integrity to easily convey their history to passers-by and still have the ability to contribute to the historic landscape of the survey area.

Of the total buildings recorded in the survey area, 25 buildings or 2% percent were selected for Enhanced survey. In most cases buildings were selected because field observations supported the possibility that they might be architecturally significant. In a few cases, property owners or community members informed surveyors in the field that the building had aspects to its history that might indicate historical or cultural significance. The following table lists the buildings evaluated at the Enhanced level, along with their determinations of eligibility at the local, national, and state levels.

This list should not by any means be considered a complete list of potentially significant properties in the survey area; more data than was available from right-of-way survey would be required to make that determination. Any building in the neighborhood for which sufficient historic physical integrity and historic, cultural, or geographical importance can be shown should be considered to be potentially significant.

Areas of Significance

For the purposes of the Discover Denver project, an “Area of Significance” is identified as an area having a concentration of buildings in which most buildings retain their historic physical integrity and have the ability to convey a shared history. While there is redevelopment scattered throughout the Regis survey area, seven “Areas of Significance” were identified, each having sufficient physical integrity to convey a part of the neighborhood’s history.

Area of Significance #1: Inspiration Terrace

Area of Significance #1 is made up of Lots 1-29 of the Resubdivision of Inspiration Terrace. The area, bounded by Sheridan Boulevard on the east, Inspiration Point Park to the south, Benton Street on the west, and the north side of W. 51st Avenue on the north, sits on a prominence north of Inspiration Point Park. The area is filled with high-style mid-century and ranch houses built in the 1950s through the 1970s, creatively built into the topography. Alphonse J. Martischang, the developer/builder responsible for the show homes and part of the Post-WWII subdivision south of the park (see Area of Significance #4) lived at 5035 Ames Way for over 30 years.

5320 W. 51st Avenue (1957)

5295 W. 51st Avenue (1956)

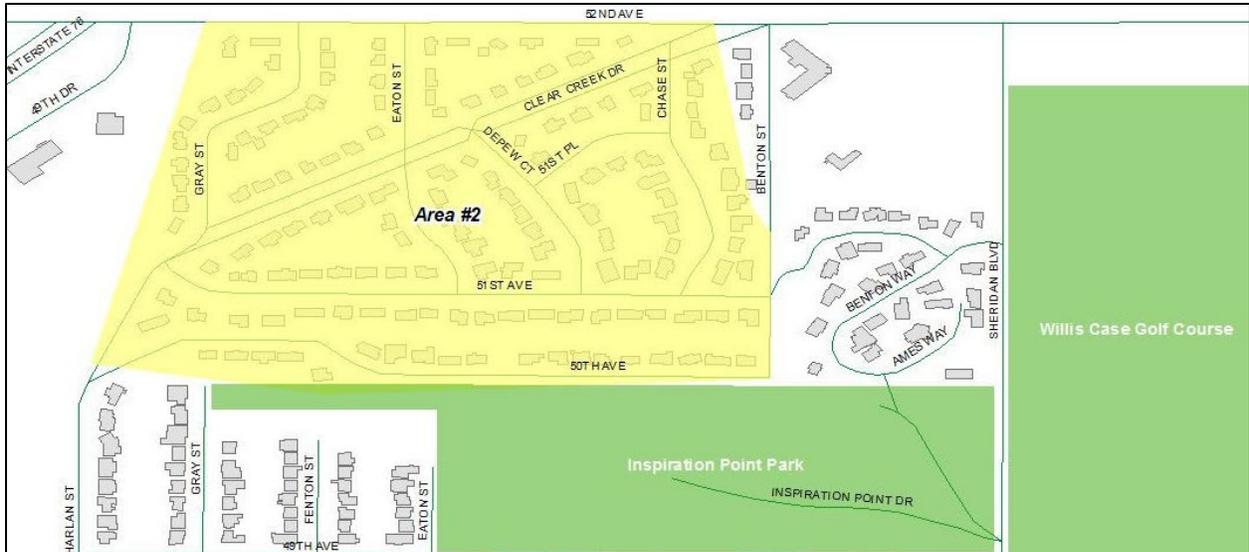

5070 Benton Way (1953)

5035 Ames Way (1932)

Area of Significance #2: Inspiration Point Estates

Area of Significance #2 comprises Blocks 1-10 of Inspiration Point Estates just northwest of Inspiration Point Park. The area contains a variety of 1950s-1970s Split-Level homes, medium-sized Ranch houses, and larger Ranch dwellings with a handful of small brick Ranches spread throughout. The boundaries of this area include W. 52nd Avenue on the north, the east side of Chase Street, W. 50th Avenue on the south, and Clear Creek to the west. Inspiration Point Estates embodies the larger Ranch and Split-Level homes that came after the initial Post-WWII building frenzy of smaller brick Ranches. The area features curvilinear streets and the orientation of many homes takes advantage of mountain views. Clear Creek Drive serves as a tree-lined boulevard, cutting through the area from southwest to northeast.

5601 W. 50th Avenue (1976)

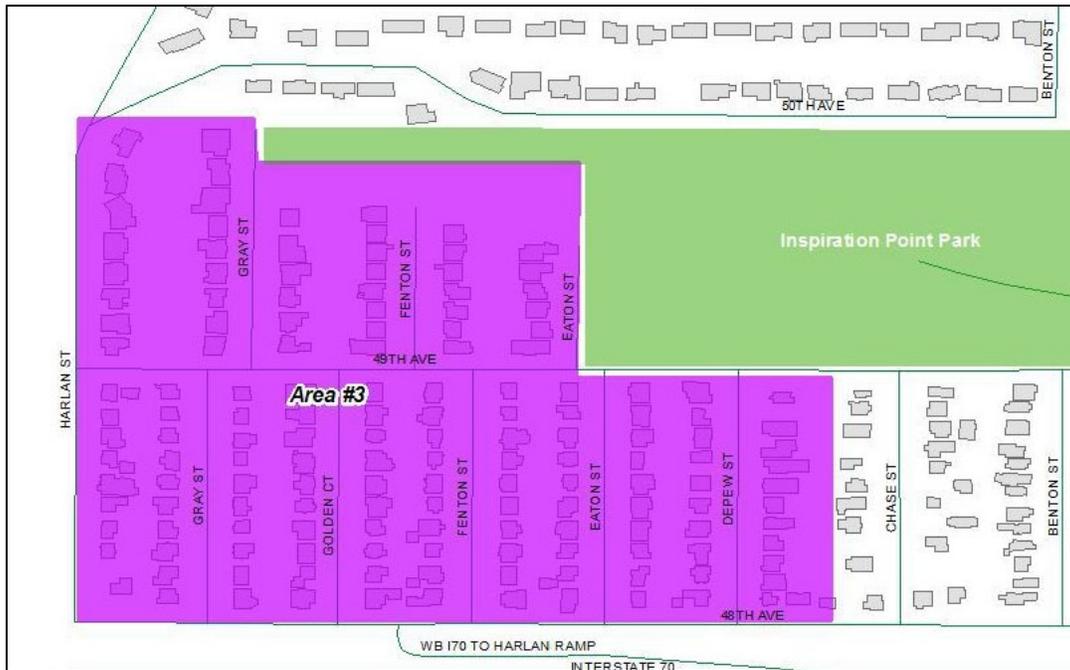

5845 W. 51st Avenue (1963)

5775 Clear Creek Avenue (1961)

Area of Significance #3: Stand-out Post-WWII Subdivision

Area of Significance #3 sits just south and west of Inspiration Point Park, bounded by the east side of Harlan Street (west), W. 48th Avenue (south), the east side of Depew Court (east), and the park (north). Blocks 1-5 of the Inspiration Sub were platted in 1951 out of the 1890 Berkeley tract. The irregular section north of W. 49th Avenue and west of the park remained part of the original Berkeley tract but did not see any construction of houses until the 1950s. This enclave retains great integrity and is a cohesive collection of small Ranch and Minimal Traditional type houses from the 1940s to 1960s. The neighborhood represents the rapid construction which took place immediately after WWII when there was an incredible need for family housing. Small brick Ranch homes, many with carports or one-car garages, went up by the thousands across the country.

4831 Golden Court (1953)

4925 Fenton Street (1954)

4871 Eaton Street (1952)

4861 Gray Street (1954)

Area of Significance #4: Ames Street and Sheridan Show Homes

Area of Significance #4 is a small enclave made up of both sides of Ames Street as well as the west side of Sheridan Boulevard from W. 48th Avenue to W. 49th Avenue. The three northernmost houses on Sheridan Boulevard were the show homes for the lots being sold on Ames Street. The building at the northwest corner of W. 48th Avenue and the I-70 frontage road (5201 W. 48th Avenue) served as the sales office. The builder who developed this area, Alphonse J. Martischang, lived just north in Inspiration Terrace (Area of Significance #1). Ames Street is an intact block of Post-WWII Ranch brick homes dating to the 1950s. The 5-unit brick apartment courtyard is the only one of its kind in the neighborhood. Along W. 48th Avenue stands a 1960s commercial strip mall that still serves the neighborhood with a variety of shops, and the 1976 seven-story Martischang Office Building.

5335 W. 48th Avenue (1976)

4827-4835 Ames Street (1955)

Area of Significance #5:

Area of Significance #5 stretches along the 4800 block and south half of the 4900 block of Tennyson Street. This block-and-a-half exhibits an eclectic mix of early 20th century architectural styles, including Pueblo Revival, Tudor Revival, Edwardian, English Norman Cottage, and Craftsman, with most of the houses dating from the early 1900s to 1949. Other parts of Tennyson Street have been significantly impacted by new construction, so this cohesive section with only one modern intrusion is noteworthy. These houses all face Willis Case Golf Course to the west.

4880 Tennyson Street (1929)

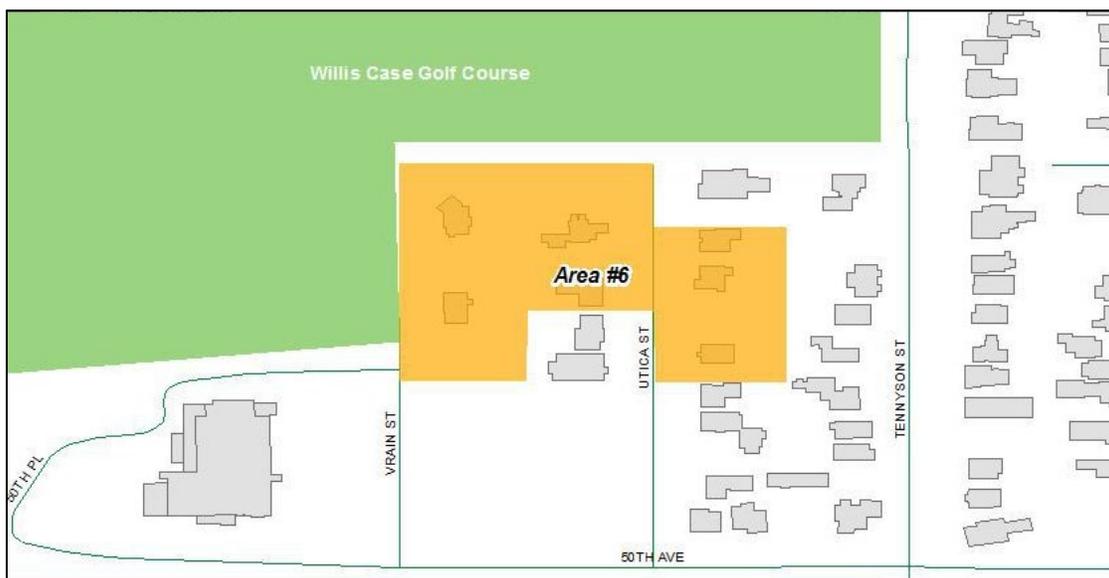

4920 Tennyson Street (1934)

4930 Tennyson Street (1931)

Area of Significance #6: Beautiful Brick Buildings of Utica and Vrain Streets

Area of Significance #6, an irregular wedge on the eastern edge of the Willis Case Golf Course and El Jebel Temple, is a group of seven brick buildings with excellent integrity. These high-style houses represent a variety of early 20th century architectural styles such as Tudor Revival, English Norman Cottage, Spanish Colonial Revival, and even Prairie, a rarity in Denver. Some, such as the house at 5055 Utica, appear to be architect-designed. Though tucked away, these intact homes are in a desirable location and under threat of encroachment from the newly built housing development around the 1929 El Jebel Shrine.

Area of Significance #7: Regis University

Area of Significance #7, the campus of Regis University, is bounded by Lowell Boulevard (west), W. 50th Avenue (south), Federal Boulevard (east), and W. 52nd Avenue (north). The College of the Sacred Heart was founded in 1877 in Las Vegas, New Mexico before moving to Morrison, Colorado in 1884. The present campus dates to 1887 and continues to provide a Jesuit Catholic education to students today. The surrounding area grew up around the school, which has played an influential role in how the neighborhood developed. Campus buildings span the entire history of the school at this location, with the original campus building, Main Hall, dating to 1887. Nearly every decade since the end of World War I is represented through the buildings on campus. The 1923 Collegiate Gothic-style Carroll Hall features stunning terra cotta details on every exterior wall. The dorms, classroom buildings, field house, and library date to the mid-20th century and exhibit a Modernist influence. Most buildings have been altered in some way, something to be expected in a campus evolving to meet the needs of its students.

Conclusion

The Regis neighborhood has a rich and layered past. Its connection to Regis University, to the development of the town of Berkeley, and to the mid-century annexation and subsequent development of the Inspiration Point area give it a unique history unlike any other Denver neighborhood.

Throughout the neighborhood are reminders of each of these historical layers, though recent development has begun to impact, in some areas, the ability of neighborhood buildings to convey their story. The hope is that through the work of Discover Denver, residents and visitors to Regis will be able to identify and value the resources that do remain, and that they may be preserved for years to come.

7. SURVEY LOG

Evaluations made as a part of this survey project are intended to assist city staff, property owners, and other interested parties with understanding a property’s potential significance. These evaluations may be revised in the future should additional information be discovered, or if the property no longer retains its historic physical integrity.

A determination of significance or eligibility does not formally designate a resource as a historic landmark or put any restrictions on it. Designation would require a significant level of community support and the successful completion of a rigorous public process.
